CIVICS · INDIA

INDIAN PARLIAMENT

How India represents citizens, makes laws, and strengthens democracy.

India's national law-making body. Illustrative image.

THE INSTITUTION

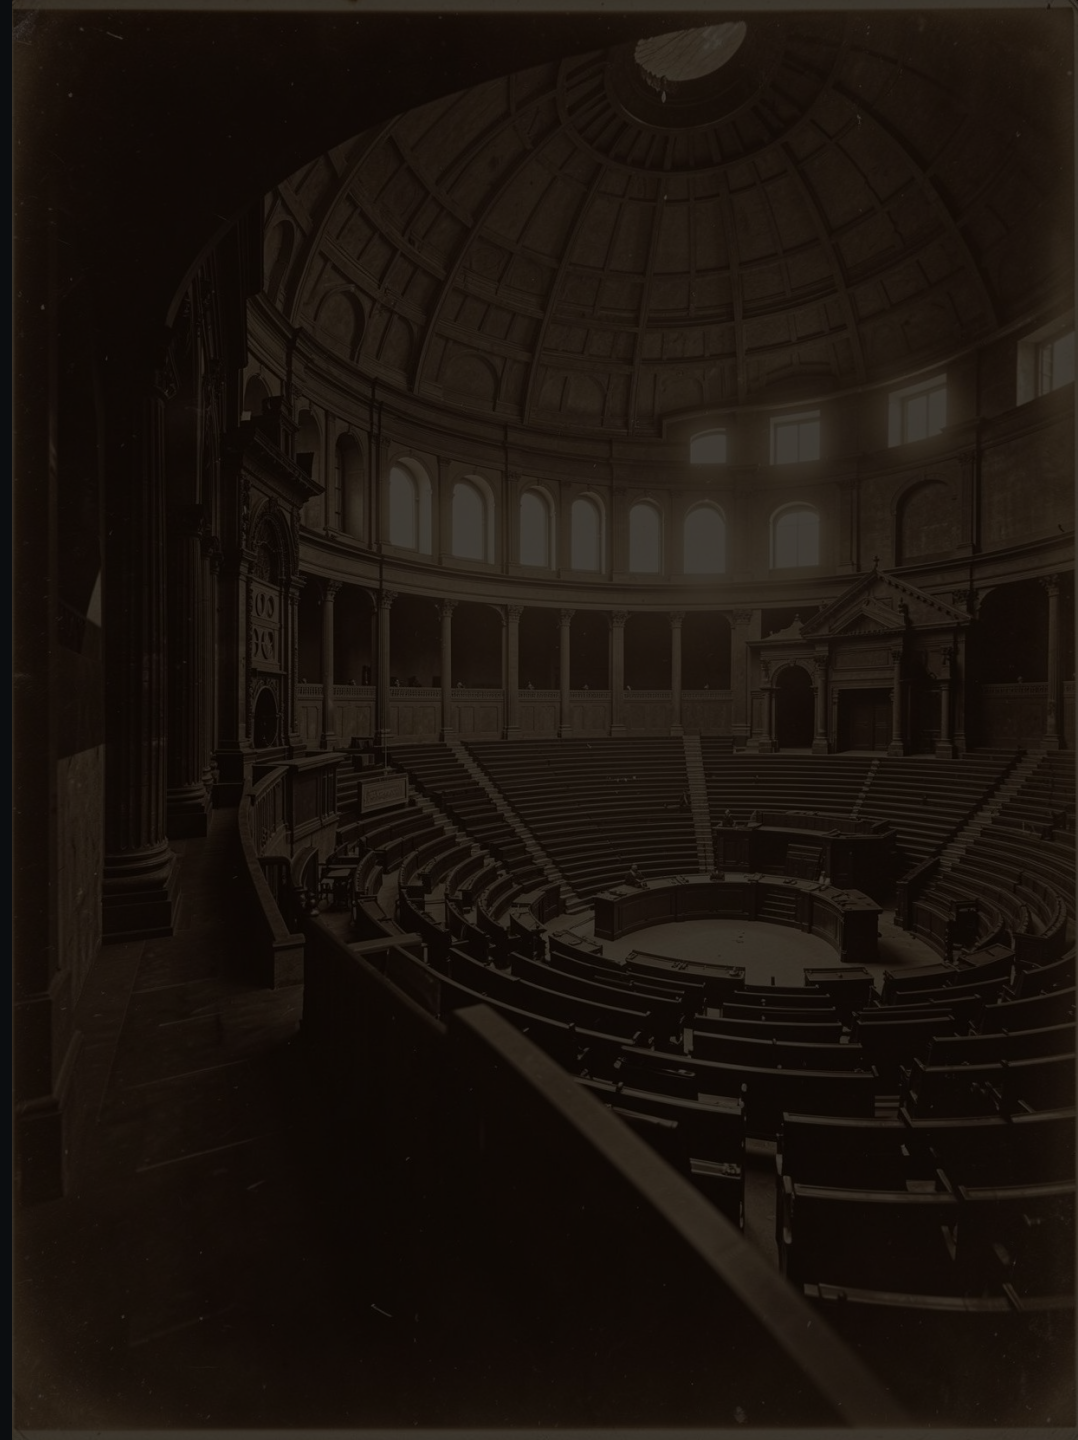

INDIA'S NATIONAL LAW-MAKING BODY

Parliament is made up of three parts: the President, the Lok Sabha, and the Rajya Sabha.

TWO HOUSES

Lok Sabha represents the people through direct elections.

Rajya Sabha represents India's states and union territories.

THE WORK OF PARLIAMENT

WHAT DOES PARLIAMENT DO?

It turns public concerns into national decisions, then checks how those decisions are carried out.

Make laws

Members discuss Bills. After approval by both Houses and the President, a Bill becomes law.

Represent people

Parliament brings public needs and different regional voices into national decisions.

Hold government accountable

Members ask questions, debate policies, and examine how public money is spent.

WHY IT MATTERS

WHY IS PARLIAMENT NEEDED?

Citizens have a voice

Elected representatives carry local concerns into national decision-making.

Important laws face debate

Discussion gives different views a place before decisions are made.

Power is balanced

Two Houses and public accountability help prevent decisions from resting in one place.

Shared challenges get a constitutional response

Parliament helps India respond through democratic institutions.

DEMOCRACY IS PARTICIPATION

THANK YOU

Parliament works best when citizens stay informed, participate, and respect democratic debate.

INDIAN PARLIAMENT